

Welcome to Mobile Data Gateway

Achieve greater visibility and greater control for your business by totally removing paper from your remote worker process'. Replace your paper job sheets, paper delivery notes, paper reports, paper order taking, and paper audits with electronic job sheets, electronic delivery notes, electronic reporting, electronic order taking and electronic audits by utilising the GRAPEVINE Mobile Data software suites.

Greater visibility comes from the ability to view from within your existing system, the full details of a completed job/delivery/task/order within one minute of that task being completed. Another great benefit of the system is your customers can also access this data via a web page or e-mail so your customers enjoy greater visibility as well.

Greater control comes firstly from increased visibility and secondly from procedural compliance mechanisms built into the device which means the task has to be completed in such a way that all company procedures are adhered to in full. The device can ensure details of the completed task cannot be transmitted back to head-office unless all mandatory fields have been completed in full. Better procedural compliance = greater control.

The good news for our customers is we are neither network specific, nor are we device specific. Our products and services work over any network, and will work on any Pocket PC or Palm OS device. Even better news for our customers is we don't use SMS. All data is transmitted over the web and by using GPRS 'always on' technology.

And to round things off nicely, you don't have to change your existing systems or operating practices. We simply 'bolt on' our technology via a very simple import/export protocol that requires very little work from your end, and that's it, you're ready to go.
